Overview

We understand that the research and development lifecycle can be a lengthy and often unpredictable process for companies in the life science industry. Our research and development (R&D) policy is an all-encompassing package designed to protect all companies throughout the development process, whether they be developing their own drug or technology, selling a product to be used in R&D or providing a service to companies needing assisting in the development of their product.

Coverage highlights

Spoilage of perishable stock cover

A change in environmental conditions can lead to unexpected damage to stock. Our policy covers for the remanufacturing costs as well as subsequent business interruption for lost R&D expenditure and contractually committed costs.

Transit of stock

During development, stock may frequently be moved between your site and that of a supply chain partner. We cover stock at fixed locations and whilst in transit for both material damage and business interruption.

Business interruption

We offer 'flexible first loss' cover, which means our policy responds to the first insurable interruption up to the full limit, so you only have to purchase one limit.

Financial loss

Our policy covers the costs associated with an unintentional breach of contract, or an accidental or negligent act or omission from the providing of services.

Patent defense

Our patent defense extension covers the costs associated with defending your position.

Products liability

Our policy can provide cover for accidental bodily injury and property damage arising out of any material, finished drug product, laboratory consumable or equipment used for research purposes.

General liability

Our cover protects you against legal expenses and compensation claims made by external individuals.

Clinical trials

Clinical trials are one of the most important phases in R&D. Should a research subject be injured during this process, our policy will compensate them should you be legally required to do so. We will also pay the ancillary costs and expenses in your defense.

Cyber and privacy

Our policy can cover damages following an unintentional breach of confidential information, including costs incurred should you unintentionally reveal personal data or suffer a first party financial loss should systems be compromised.

Worldwide jurisdiction

Our policy provides worldwide jurisdiction as standard.
